WHY HASTINGS NEEDS A TRUST

Trusts are becoming widely recognised as one of the most effective mechanisms for environmental and cultural regeneration. Charity status, combined with a democratic constitution, makes them uniquely placed to create partnerships between the public, private and voluntary sectors to tackle problems others find difficult on their own.

Hastings and St Leonards have a remarkably fine heritage, beautiful natural scenery and some attractive architecture. But exciting opportunities exist for improvement and innovation. The Hastings Trust intends to seize these opportunities by taking imaginative initiatives and helping local people turn their visions for improving the town into reality.

The Trust's launch in 1991 continues and extends the work of the Hastings Urban Conservation Project which was awarded a UK 2000 Kitemark for good practice in 1990 and received an Honourable Mention in the 1991 Community Enterprise Scheme run jointly by the Times, Royal Institute of British Architects and Business in the Community.
